KID'S ICE OUTING CANCELLED

The annual event has been cancelled. During the first week of February there was no ice on the area of Anchor Bay where the event was going to be held. The committee felt that even with the predicted cold weather it still would not be enough to make safe ice for a large group with all the equipment and vehicles.

TRADE-A-TRIP

By Ray Kalisz

I have contacted the Battle Creek Steelheaders' President about them coming over here in the spring. The Spring Trade-A-Trip will be held the last weekend in April. The dates are April 28, 29, 30.

If there are no changes to these dates I will ask everyone to help out with the fish fry which will be held on Saturday. I will also be asking for volunteers to take one or two steelheaders out on their boat.

Then, on the weekend of July 7th, 8th, and 9th our members who have signed up will be going to the west side of the state to fish in Lake Michigan. There are a limited number of spaces available on the boats volunteered by the Steelheaders Club. Check with us at the next meeting if you would like to take part in this trip.

DERBY RULES

The Derby Committee would like to take this opportunity to mention two important issues regarding the upcoming season. One is that members will be asked to vote on several changes at the next meeting and they will be listed below. Then, we want to mention that some changes have already been voted on.

The members will be asked to consider the following changes to the rules. These changes were presented to the Board of Directors. The BoD is recommending the following changes.

- The "Lake" and "River" divisions will be combined. The new division will be called the "Open Division".
- The current point system will remain in effect for the Open Division.
- The member who scores the most points in a Derby Year will receive a 1st Place Jacket.
- Members who place 2nd and 3rd will receive an engraved plaque.
- In the Master's Division there will be a 1st Place Jacket and plaques for 2nd and 3rd place finish.

All of the other rules that have not been voted on will remain. After the voting and before the first derby of the 2006 Derby Season a copy of the updated rules will be included in the newsletters mailed to the membership.

The 13 inch minimum length for entering Walleye in the derbies will remain in effect for the 2006 season. The Board of Directors realizes the controversial nature of this determination. The membership should consider the options if they wish to change this rule for the 2007 season and start to work on the issue this summer.

WHAT, NO ICE?

By Keith Krych

What is an angler to do in the winter when Mother Nature doesn't provide any ice?

Well you can chip away at the "honey do list", go the Opera (yea right), or start getting your equipment ready for the spring walleye run. I vote for the later!

Now is the time to gather all your tackle, safety equipment, rain gear, and separate it into two piles. One pile is stuff that doesn't need any repair or replacement. The other is for equipment that needs to be repaired, replaced or thrown out.

Some things to look for in the second group are bad hooks on your baits, torn life vests, outdated flares, chips on rod guides, and reels that need repair. Reel-repair shops are often swamped later in the spring. So now is a good time to get them looked at. They usually do rod repair too. Strip off all the old line on your reels too while you have them out.

Check your raingear for holes or worn spots, remember last year when you got wet in that downpour? Now is the time to shop for raingear, after it starts raining.

Any new baits or rods that you need or want? Start shopping for bargains on them now, not later.

Now is the perfect time to start tying crawler harnesses, making shanks, and making or painting jigs. Order hooks and other terminal tackle in bulk that you'll need from Stamina or other discount tackle stores.

Don't forget about your boat as well as your boat trailer. You don't want to find out that the trailer needs attention when you get ready to take that first fishing trip of the year, and you don't want to discover that the boat won't start when you arrive at the boat ramp. Make an appointment with you dealerships service department NOW not later.

Check the air pressure in the trailer tires, make sure everything that needs to be greased is, check charge levels in the batteries, insure that battery connections and power connections to sonar units, electric motors, and the like are in good shape, and make sure you have the plug in the boat. It is amazing how many boats fill up with water on the first trip of the year because someone forgot to put the plug in.

Be safe on the water and make it the best one ever!!

DNR RECEIVES COMPENSATION FOR RESOURCE DAMAGES

The Michigan DNR Receives Compensation for Resource Damages as part of Hydroelectric Dam Settlement.

DNR fisheries officials recently announced the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) has reached a settlement with American Energy Company related to safety violations dating back to 2001 at five hydroelectric dams the company owns and operates on the Grand and Thornapple rivers in southern Michigan.

In addition to the safety violations, American Energy also was cited for two dewatering incidents at the Smithville reservoir in 2005 and at the LaBarge Dam where a dewatering of the reservoir occurred last February.

American Energy will pay $300,000 to resolve these issues. As compensation for resource damages, the DNR will receive $50,000 to be spent specifically on fish passage and habitat improvement projects around the hydroelectric facilities on the Grand and Thornapple rivers.

ANGLER NUMBERS ON THE UPSWING

By Alex Witek

Information from an article by W.H. "Chip" Gross in the Fishing Tackle Retailer Magazine (January 2006)

The number of fishing licenses sold in the US showed an increase in 2004 over the numbers from 2003. According to numbers from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's recent National Fishing License Report there as an increase of 2.1 percent. While this is not a large number it could mean that a trend of flat or declining numbers is over.

Not only did resident license sales increase but the report also noted that there was an increase in non-resident license sales. This was 3.7 increase over the sales from 2003.

Currently, one out of every 10 Americans has a fishing license. The number of anglers in America peaked in the mid-1980s at 31.5 million. At that time, anglers represented approximately 19 percent of the U.S. population. That would have been nearly one out of every five.

BECOMING AN OUTDOORS-WOMAN PROGRAM

The Department of Natural Resources Becoming an Outdoors-Woman (BOW) program is offering a winter skills workshop for women Feb. 24-26 at the DNR's MacMullan Conference Center at Higgins Lake.

"This workshop is a great way for women, 18 and older, to learn new outdoor activities, improve their existing skills and enjoy the company of other women who also appreciate the beauty of winter," said Lynn Marla, BOW program coordinator.

Classes are offered in more than a dozen activities, including ice fishing, snowshoeing, cross-country skiing, dogsledding, snowmobile safety, winter survival and an opportunity to go winter rafting on the Sturgeon River. There also will be classes in archery, basket weaving, nest box building and cast iron cooking.

The MacMullan Conference Center is surrounded by mature pines and hardwoods, and the comfortable facilities offer a true "up north" feeling, and yet is very easily accessed from US-27.

The $200 registration fee covers lodging, meals and instruction, and the registration form is available on the DNR Web site at www.michigan.gov/dnr.

Many other outdoor programs for women are scheduled this year across Michigan. To learn more about this program or additional opportunities, contact Lynn Marla at (517) 241-2225 or e-mail marlal@michigan.gov

2006 LAKE ERIE FISHING OUTLOOK IS PROMISING

The large 2003 walleye and yellow perch hatches should be a plus for anglers. Lake Erie anglers should experience excellent fishing opportunities in 2006, say fisheries biologists with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR) Division of Wildlife.

"We are excited about the outstanding fishing opportunities on Lake Erie for a variety of species in 2006," said Roger Knight, Lake Erie fisheries program manager at ODNR. "The large 2003 hatch should provide large numbers of good-sized walleye and yellow perch, while quality smallmouth bass and steelhead trout fishing also will be available to Lake Erie anglers."

Knight noted that access to good fishing in the Western and Central basins can be found through the large number of charter boats in Ohio and at numerous public boat ramps, private marinas, and shoreline areas.

WALLEYE

Anglers can expect this year's Lake Erie walleye fishery to be dominated by hatches from 1999, 2001 and 2003. Fish from the 1999-year class will range from 21 to 25 inches; fish from 2001 will range from 19 to 21 inches; and those from 2003 will be 17 to 20 inches over the course of the fishing season. Some large walleye from the strong hatches of the 1980s and mid 1990s still persist in the population, providing 'Fish Ohio' trophy (more than 28 inches) opportunities. 'Weather conditions played a major role in the lake's distribution of walleye in 2005. With extremely warm water temperatures, walleye moved further east and they remained there longer,' said Knight. 'If water temperatures remain cool in 2006, we should have a phenomenal walleye fishery in the West and Central basins of Lake Erie.'

The daily bag limit increases to four fish during March and April for the 2006 fishing season and will remain at six fish May through February. The 15-inch minimum size limit is in effect during the entire season. Most of the fish from the exceptionally abundant 2003 hatch will be of legal size during the 2006 fishing season.

YELLOW PERCH

Perch anglers fishing the Ohio waters of Lake Erie should also be pleased with this year's catches. Fish from a good 2001 hatch will range from 9-12 inches, with Central Basin fish running larger than those in the Western Basin. Anglers should expect to catch large numbers of perch from an exceptionally strong hatch in 2003. 'The average size of yellow perch available to anglers in 2006 should improve, as the large 2003 year-class likely will be in the 8- to 10-inch range,' said Knight.

Peak fishing will occur from August through October, but early summer fishing should also be rewarding, especially in the Central Basin. Some 'Fish Ohio' perch (more than 13 inches) will be available. Schools of these 'jumbo' are not abundant, but often can be found in relatively shallow rocky areas feeding on gobies and other prey fish. Ohio's daily bag limit for yellow perch increases to 40 fish per angler for the 2006 season.

STEELHEAD TROUT

Peak steelhead action on Lake Erie can be found offshore from Vermilion to Conneaut, from June through August, with catches measuring 17 to 29 inches. Most anglers trolling for steelhead in deep waters use spoons with dipsy divers or downriggers. Many charter guides now offer steelhead charters as an alternative to traditional walleye charters. Lake Erie steelhead move into Central Basin streams during fall through winter and provide excellent fishing opportunities for wading anglers throughout the fall, winter and spring months. The ODNR Division of Wildlife maintains this popular fishery by releasing approximately 400,000 steelhead trout each spring in the Vermilion, Rocky, Chagrin and Grand rivers, as well as Conneaut Creek.

Because of the changing conditions of Lake Erie, such as increases in water clarity and aquatic vegetation, there are additional options for anglers fishing in nearshore areas. Many bays and harbors offer excellent fishing for panfish, including crappie and bluegill, as well as largemouth bass. In early spring, anglers may also catch an occasional northern pike or muskellunge in these vegetated harbors.

Anglers are reminded that fishing conditions on Lake Erie can change hourly and adjustments are often necessary to improve their success. Anglers should take into account such factors as water temperature, cloud cover, water clarity, boat traffic, wave action, structure, and the amount of bait fish in the area. Anglers are also reminded to carefully monitor Lake Erie weather while fishing and to seek safe harbor before storms approach.

During the season, ODNR provides an updated, recorded Lake Erie fishing report at 1-888-HOOKFISH and online at ohiodnr.com. ODNR Division of Wildlife staff members are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays at Fairport Harbor (440-352-4199) for Central Basin information and at Sandusky (419-625-8062) for Western Basin information.

The ODNR Division of Wildlife maintains a series of web pages describing its Lake Erie research and management programs, fisheries resources, open lake and steelhead fishing reports, as well as maps and links to other Lake Erie web resources. This information is available on the Internet at: ohiodnr.com/wildlife/fishing/fairport/index.htm
